

Daniel S. Malloy, CRT

Dan is a graduate of De Paul University with a degree in Sociology, and has a Master of Science degree in the Detection of Deception. Dan has been employed at John E. Reid and Associates since 1974 and is Director of the Seminar Division as well as a member of the Board of Directors at John E. Reid and Associates.

Dan has conducted over 8,000 actual interviews and interrogations and has presented international seminars on the Reid Technique. Dan's hands-on knowledge of criminal suspects made it possible for him to make significant contributions to the course material for the Reid seminar. Reid course participants constantly make comments about Dan's commitment to excellence and professionalism in his seminar presentations.
